Free pop in a personal universe

"A dream for many bands is to create their own, personal soundscapes. The trio nuaia has succeeded. The Danish-Swedish band transcends their own combination of pop and electronica". - Alexander Agrell/Sydsvenskan.

The Danish-Swedish band Nuaia is performing a mix of free-pop, jazz, electronica and improvisation. Known for their intense live sessions, Nuaia gives audiences some rare and beautiful experiences, no matter if the listeners are youngsters, pop lovers, hardcore jazz listeners or everything in between. In a universe where vocal, drums and acoustic instruments meet electronic sounds, stories get born and are told with an exceptional presence.

Nuaia has previously released two albums "Nuaia"(BoogiePostRecordings, 2009) and "Belong to the moon"(BoogiePostRecordings, 2015), which received great reviews internationally. In 2019 they released the single Hush Now feat. Jonas Kullhammar(BoogiePost Recordings) and in 2020 Nuaia was launched at Jazz Denmark's international platform DanishJazz, which resulted in live video HYMN. Watch HYMN here:

In winter 2021 Nuaia will release the live EP "As simple as that" based on live recordings from concerts in Victoria Teatern(Malmö), KoncertKirken(Copenhagen) and Umeå jazz club(Umeå).

The group has been performing at Copenhagen Jazzfestival(DK), Tampere Jazz Happening(FI), Reeperbahn festival(DE) and venues all around Scandinavia and Germany.

Nuaia is:

Sofie Norling: vocal and live-electronics

Mika Forsling: electric guitar, mbira, hankdrum and live-electronics

Michala Østergaard-Nielsen: drums, percussion, vibraphonette
